The Terry College of Business Alumni Awards date back to 1964 when the first Distinguished Alumni Awards were presented. This award continues to honor outstanding alumni who have excelled in their careers and made a difference in their communities. The Outstanding Young Alumni Award was first given in 1985 and recognizes alumni who are under 40 and who have demonstrated achievement and show a promising future in business.

Two additional awards, the Lindsey Hopkins III Alumni Lifetime Service Award and the Dean’s Distinguished Service Award, have been added in recent years to recognize individuals who have provided invaluable service to the Terry College of Business.

The Terry College Alumni Board accepts nominations for these awards throughout the year and selects each year’s winners.

The Alumni Award keepsake is a handcrafted glass vase by artist Paul Bendzunas. Introduced as the Terry College’s Alumni Award in 2002, the handblown pieces are formed from molten glass using a five-foot-long stainless steel pipe. Each one-of-a-kind glass vase is signed and dated by the artist.

Distinguished Alumni Awards

Frank W. Brumley, BBA 1962
Chairman and CEO, Daniel Island Company
Frank Brumley has built a legendary career as the developer of several well-known planned communities on the coast. Brumley served as CEO and partner of several major coastal developments, including Amelia Island Plantation, near Jacksonville, Fla., Wild Dunes and Kiawah Island, near Charleston, S.C.

Since 1997, he has been the chairman and CEO of the Daniel Island Company. A part of the city of Charleston, Daniel Island is a 4,000-acre island town zoned for 7,000 single-family homes and more than 2 million square feet of commercial space, with 20 miles of waterfront. After graduating in 1962, Brumley spent seven years working as a commercial banker before he began his real estate career at Sea Pines Resort on Hilton Head Island. At Terry, he serves on the newly formed Dean’s Advisory Council and previously served on the Board of Overseers.

Hill A. Feinberg, BBA 1969
Chairman and CEO, First Southwest Company
Hill Feinberg is the chairman and CEO of First Southwest Company, based in Dallas. First Southwest is a privately held investment banking firm that established its prominence in the public finance arena, most notably for developing the financial plan that made the Alaska pipeline a reality in the 1970s. First Southwest has become the second largest financial advisor to municipal governments in the country.

Under Feinberg’s leadership since 1991, First Southwest has continued to expand its investment banking expertise to include debt, equity and clearing services. A native of Columbus, Ga., Feinberg was a senior managing director at Bear Stearns & Co. and a vice president and manager of Salomon Brothers in the Dallas office before joining First Southwest. In 2006, Feinberg established a faculty support fund for the Finance Department at Terry in the name of his family.

R. Michael Barry Jr., BBA 1993, JD 1996, EMBA 2005
Partner, Epstein Becker & Green

R. Michael Barry Jr. is a partner in the law firm of Epstein Becker & Green PC and a member of the firm’s practices in health care and corporate and securities law. He represents clients in joint ventures, private securities offerings and other complex business transactions, including health care regulatory guidance. In 2005 and 2006, he was named a Georgia “Rising Star,” awarded to less than 2.5 percent of young attorneys practicing in the state.

Barry has earned three degrees from UGA. He graduated with a bachelor’s degree in finance in 1993, followed by a law degree in 1996, and returned for a master’s degree from the Terry Executive MBA program, which he completed in 2005. He remains very active in the EMBA Program, participating in new student recruitment and alumni activities.

Mrs. C. Herman Terry
Committed Volunteer and Benefactor

Mary Virginia Terry has dedicated herself to preserving and enhancing the legacy of support begun by her late husband, C. Herman Terry, who passed away 10 years ago. In 1990, Mr. and Mrs. Terry donated what was at the time the largest private gift in UGA history. A year later the College of Business Administration was renamed in their honor. That record gift, along with subsequent gifts, has endowed faculty chairs, scholarships, summer research support and facility upgrades to the Terry Executive Education Center in Atlanta.

Herman Terry was an emeritus trustee of the UGA Foundation and in 1986 received the college’s Distinguished Alumni Award. In recognition of her ongoing support as an emeritus trustee of the Arch Foundation and charter inductee of the Pinnacle Society, Mrs. Terry was presented the Friend of UGA Award in 2007, given to a non-graduate whose public service benefits the university.
